Mr. Sweet called his two best employees into his office. "Please sit down, Ann and Dan. I have an important job for you two. As you both know, this is our busiest time of year. Sales of Sweet's Hearts have always been at their highest in the first two weeks of February. And now that we have a newly designed website, I expect to sell even more. And that's why I need your help. I need to keep track of who is visiting our website and how many products we're selling."

Dan and Ann nodded and took notes as Mr. Sweet spoke.

"Okay, Dan, here's what I need you to do. I need you to make a report that shows how much we're selling through our website. Focus on three items: the $8 candy hearts, the $10 chocolate hearts, and the $12 cookie hearts. Give me the sales numbers for the first two weeks of February and also the numbers from last year at this time. Ann, your job is to tell me how many people are visiting our website. We're airing a big radio commercial on February 5, and I want to see if that gets more traffic to our site. I will need both of these reports by February 16. Any questions?"
